

PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY

May was a volatile period for the global market, with all regions posting negative returns. The Fund was down 3.4% over the month. A disappointing headline number, but we take comfort that the Fund’s performance was driven less by overall correlation to the market and more by over-reaction to short term company specifics.

Fund performance was negatively impacted by our energy majors, with 3 of our 4 names off on avg. 7% as the oil price retreated to recent lows of $55/barrel. As longer-term investors this is frustrating, but we see no cause for alarm. Each of our energy companies is well placed to weather lower oil prices and, while they may suffer from correlation to oil prices in the short term, this does not alter our investment case. A smaller holding, Gap Inc, having risen significantly since our first purchase in 2017, fell c. 25% during May as weaker Q1 results raised doubts over the market-anticipated spin-off of its Old Navy brand. We remain neutral to a possible spin-off - it may result in short term price appreciation, but the long-term benefits are not clear (Gap has no financial debt on the balance sheet, c. 10% FCF and the multiple brand approach an area of strength). We added slightly on recent weakness, bringing Gap to a 1.5% position.

With so few safe havens in the month (by region or sector), it is pleasing to see non-correlated positive performance in the portfolio. After a weaker month in April, Newmont (a 6.2% position) rose 10% in May. We have long been attracted to gold’s lack of correlation to global equity markets (and the rest of our portfolio). With its exceptional execution record and trading at very reasonable valuations relative to production and reserves, Newmont provides an excellent exposure to gold. Neopost rose 10% mid-month on a Q1 sales announcement (sales up 7% y-o-y) as it refocuses under new CEO Geoffrey Godet. Munich Reinsurance was also up on well-received Q1 2019 results.

Track Record Description & Methodology

* The portfolio was launched in July 2007 ("Inception") in Australia as the Contrarian Global Value Fund. The Kennox investment team ran that fund from launch until September 2008. The Kennox Strategic Value Fund was launched in April 2009, comprising 19 of the 20 positions that existed in the Australia fund. We have assumed a static portfolio for the interim period.

Performance shown reflects total return of the Institutional Share class. Performance figures are generated from the accumulation shares since their launch on 29 April 2013. Prior to that performance figures are taken from an alternative share class, adjusted to reflect a 1.0% management fee throughout.

+ Sharpe Ratio is calculated as annualised return divided by the standard deviation of the excess return over the Libor 3m Bond yield.

+ Volatility is calculated as the standard deviation of the natural log returns multiplied by the square root of the periodicity of the returns.

Performance figures shown are total return with data for Kennox and the MSCI provided by Kennox/Bloomberg and IA Global data provided by Morningstar

The information in this document does not constitute, or form part of, any offer to sell or issue, or any offer to purchase or subscribe for shares, nor shall this document or any part of it or the fact of its distribution form the basis of or be relied on in connection with any contract. Interests in any investment funds managed by Kennox Asset Management will be offered and sold only pursuant to the prospectus relating to such funds.

The Kennox Strategic Value Fund ("Fund") should be considered a long-term investment. You should be aware that the Fund is permitted to invest in markets which are not as well developed or regulated as the UK. As such, investments in those markets may be less liquid, and may have less reliable custody arrangements. Therefore, they may be prone to above average volatility and carry more risk. Where investments are made in smaller companies, these companies' shares may be less liquid than larger companies and the price swings may therefore be greater. You should remember that the value of investments and the income derived therefrom may fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount that you invest. Past performance is not a guide to future returns.

The Fund is denominated in £ sterling. You should be aware that if sterling appreciates or depreciates against the currencies in which investments are made, this could have an effect on the value of your investment. An investment in the Fund carries a degree of risk and retail investors should seek professional advice before investing in the Fund. Kennox has not taken any steps to ensure that the securities referred to in this document are suitable for any particular investor and no assurance can be given that the stated investment objectives will be achieved.
